WHAT DO OUR CUSTOMERS SAY?

BELOW ARE A FEW OF OUR CUSTOMERS' COMMENTS ABOUT OUR MUSIC AND CUSTOMER SERVICE

"I have received your catalogue, for which I thank you. I just wanted to say that I am absolutely overwhelmed by the number, range and quality of the recordings that you offer. There simply isn't enough time in the world to even begin to appreciate more than a sample of this vast cornucopia. But I will try."

– L.P., United Kingdom

"I am really delighted about the excellent CD quality. Also the information that came inside your products about the folk music, the group history, or in some cases the lyrics, etc., it's just amazing!"

– G.G., Mexico

– M.R., United Kingdom

"I would certainly recommend your company and its products to anyone."

– L.C., USA

"Supersonic Shipping! Super Price! Super Service! Super Seller! 100%"

– C.C., United Kingdom

"Quick delivery, well packaged. Truly a star seller. Thank You."

– M.R., United Kingdom

"Fast and efficient service. Would definitely use again."

– W.B., United Kingdom

"As always, ARC just continues to amaze me with the scope and the quality of new projects that bring the world a little closer."

– J.Z., USA

"Good sound and quite authentic almost like the Plazas of Roma and Napoli. One of the better CDs of Italian music."

– M.D., USA

"Excellent!!! Couldn't be better. Looking forward to my next purchase."

– J.D., USA

"I have since received my CDs and actually listened to them quite a bit. I told you I had used the bellydance sampler in my painting classroom for music drawings. The minute long samples were perfect for quick little drawings: a very good way to get the creative juices flowing. Now that I have heard Hossam Ramzy in more depth I am loving it! This is truly creative music with its own unique flavour. The base of Egyptian classical music upon which many wonderful spontaneous solos are built is highly reminiscent of the spirit of jazz. I love playing this music when I paint. It mirrors the rhythm and flavour of my work beautifully. I have always listened to jazz when I paint. But this new discovery of Ramzy is destined to take over my studio. I am sure you will get many orders from me in the future."

– J.H., USA

"Pure Flamenco with soul and passion."

– R.A., Spain

"This is a beautiful CD – very exotic, every song is rich and enchanting."

– N.J., USA

Seckou Keita is a true master of his instrument, a childhood prodigy, born of a line of griots and kings (Keita is the royal lineage, and not traditionally a griot name). Cissokho, his mother's family name, gave life to his talent. His family includes Solo Cissokho, Seckou's uncle, who introduced him to the International stage in 1996.

A childhood of strict training and discipline was enforced by his Grandfather, a training that Seckou now recognises as a gift, saving him from a life travelled by some other musicians, a life that is victim to whimsy and temptation. In line with tradition, Seckou started his apprenticeship on the kora when he was seven years old. No one gave him lessons. He learned by close observation of all the many kora players and musicians in the household. And he learned quickly. Seduced by the diverse rhythms all around him, Seckou also set out to master a variety of drumming techniques; first the seourouba drums with teacher Souti Silamé, then djembe with 'Machine' Sylla and sabar with Pa Cor N'diaye. His grandfather, angry at first that Seckou should neglect his studies at home and at school for such frivolous diversions, eventually relented and granted the young Seckou the right to become the 'family drummer' and practitioner of a griot form of percussion called jali dundun. His talent and dedication soon brought him to the attention of the international music community.

The intense rhythm of Seckou's working life was driven by the desirability of his musical talents and his ability to get along with all kinds of different people. He toured with the Sierra Leonean musician Francis Fuster, one time sidekick to Paul Simon, Miriam Makeba and Manu Dibango, and with Baka Beyond, whose founders Martin Cradick and Su Hart had befriended Seckou in Ziguinchor a few years before. The pair helped to produce his first solo kora album, Baiyo (Orphan), which was released in 2000 (and subsequently re-released on ARC Music).

Fast forward a decade or so and Seckou has proved himself to be a musician almost without equal in his field. A driven, talented musician, with a heart full of tradition and a mind driven to compose, invent and push boundaries, through collaboration, tunings and playing with the genres he understands so well.

HOSSAM RAMZY, Egypt's Ambassador of Rhythm, was born in Cairo. His musical career began early, when at the age of three he was given his first drum – an Egyptian tabla. His passion for percussion was noted by his family (many of whom were themselves involved in the arts) who encouraged him to master his craft by studying with the leading music teachers of Egypt. A move to Saudi Arabia introduced Hossam to many of the Bedouin tribes who gave the young Hossam a rich insight into the cultural origins of Middle Eastern music that became the inspiration for many of his later rhythmic directions.

In the mid 1970s he moved to England, and enjoyed great success as a Jazz and Latin style drummer working with many highly respected Jazz musicians like Andy Sheppard and Geoff Williams. But, as he began looking for new dimensions of percussive sounds, he found himself turning full circle, back to his first love, the Egyptian drums, and the thrilling dance rhythms of the Middle East. The distinctive sound of Hossam's percussion and the exciting rhythms on his albums caught the imagination of Peter Gabriel who invited Hossam to perform on his albums 'Passion' and later 'Us'. Hossam went on to work with many top musicians including Joan Armatrading and Mari Wilson. In 1994 Robert Plant and Jimmy Page (Led Zeppelin) invited Hossam to bring together a band of Arabian musicians and work on their reunion album 'No Quarter - Unleaded' which was awarded triple platinum. This led to Hossam joining Page and Plant on their historic reunion 1995/96 world tour. Ever since, Hossam has been extensively touring with various artists, such as Pino Daniele of Italy as well as many of the top class Arabian Singers like Cheb Khaled, Rachid Taha, Faudel and Yeşim Salkım, one of the most popular female singers from Turkey. To date Hossam has released over 25 albums and two DVDs of Egyptian dance and world music, with many of them dedicated to percussion and rhythms of the world.

He has also collaborated on composing and performing many award-winning film sound tracks like: Stargate, Wings of a Dove, The Saint, The Hunchback of Notre Dame, Stealing Beauty, The Last Temptation of Christ, Stardust, Prince of Persia: The Sands of Time, Conan the Barbarian 3D and The Dictator.

Hossam has performed with Sting on the Michael Parkinson TV Show. He won the New Age Voice Award for "Best Contemporary World Music" for his album 'Immortal Egypt' in collaboration with Phil Thornton.

He also joined the "Masters of Percussion from Africa Ensemble" for a concert at the Royal Festival Hall in London, featuring the world famous Brazilian percussionist Airto Moreira.

In 2007 he played a live show with the legendary Grammy Award winners Chick Corea, Isaac Hayes and Mark Isham. In 2008 he completed arrangements and recorded for Shakira's 'She Wolf' (EPIC) and 'Empire'.

Today Hossam is at the top of his game, having released the biggest album of his career, Rock The Tabla, a collaborative project featuring some of the world's top musicians including A.R. Rahman, Billy Cobham, Omar Faruk Tekbilek & Manu Katché.

ROCK THE TABLA

“Mr. Ramzy has kicked the music world square in the rhythm section... ‘Rock the Tabla’ ... well, it just doesn’t get any better than this.” - World Music Central

“Probably the best world music release of the year!”
- J. Poet, DRUM!

“So rarely in life we are given exactly what we want. For musicians those dream collaborations are just that – dreams. Well, Hossam Ramzy, Egypt’s Ambassador of Rhythm, got a whole CD worth of those dream collaborations for his Rock The Tabla CD out on the ARC Music label. And, we’re talking collaborations with the likes of A.R. Rahman, Billy Cobham, Manu Katché, Omar Faruk Tekbilek, Jimmy Waldo, Chaz Kkoshi, Phil Thornton, John Themis and Joji Hirota. That’s a whole lot a dreams come true. If the collaborations are anything to go by Mr. Ramzy must have a fairy godmother in his closet or something.

Starting out his early career as part of England’s 70s jazz scene with performances with Andy Sheppard and Geoff Williams, Hossam Ramzy began to explore his own Egyptian drumming roots and a flavored Middle Eastern repertoire with Peter Gabriel on the recordings of Passion and Us. Working with the likes of Joan Armatrading, Mari Wilson, Cheb Khaled, Rachid Taha and Faudel, as well as teaming up with Arabic musicians for Robert Plant and Jimmy Page on the reunion recording No Quarter – Unleaded, Mr. Ramzy has kicked the music world square in the rhythm section.

His film music credits are just as impressive with work on such movies as Stargate, The Saint, The Hunchback of Notre Dame, Stealing Beauty and Prince of Persia: The Sands of Time, Conan the Barbarian 3D and The Dictator. He also has a 2007 concert with Chick Corea, Isaac Hayes and Mark Isham to his credit and has worked on Shakira’s She Wolf and Empire as an arranger and musician.

Rich and lushly worked, Rock The Tabla opens with a combo of styles incorporating flamenco, Arabian and Greek influences with a dash of Cairo street music thrown in for good measure on ‘Arabantana’ before swinging into the slick and sassy ‘Cairo to India’ with A.R. Rahman at the keyboards. Arabic flash with jazzy overtones ‘Six Teens’ hits the spot with Billy Cobham on drums, Mr. Ramzy on Egyptian and world percussion, Ossama El Hendy on keyboards, sequencers and bass, Phil Thornton on e.bow guitars and Mohammed Ali on electric violin and oud.

Other goodies include the sizzling ‘Ancient Love Affairs’ with Elhamy Ezzat on vocals, Jimmy Waldo on keyboards, sequencers and bass, Tim Pierce on guitar, the Hossam Ramzy String Ensemble as well as Mr. Ramzy himself, the kick ass percussion track ‘Shukran Arigato’ with Mr. Ramzy and Joji Hirota and the West African inspired ‘Bluesy Flusey’ with Mohammed Ali on electric violin and Sayed Al Hosseiny adding that special something on mizmar. ‘Sawagy’ is truly inspired with vocals by Houda El Sombaty and some flash provided by Abdalla Helmy on nay. ‘Dom & Doumbia’ is just as spectacular with Nahini Doumbia on djembe, djundjun and African conga against Mr. Ramzy’s Egyptian percussion on this rhythm saturated stunner. Dipped in swirling colors of keyboards, Egyptian percussion, some incendiary guitar licks and Omar Faruk Tekbilek on mizmar, title track ‘Rock the Tabla’ ... well, it just doesn’t get any better than this.

Rock The Tabla is crazy good.”

A magnificent album, echoing the majesty of the pyramids, revealing the mystery of Egypt in a 21st century guise. Artist biographies and descriptions of the pieces.

REVIEW

• “Hossam Ramzy’s name has been known to world music cognoscenti, and perhaps film buffs as well, since the Egyptian percussion master collaborated with Peter Gabriel on the soundtrack of The Last Temptation of Christ. But the project closest to his heart is undoubtedly the trilogy of Egypt titled albums he has co-produced and composed with his British neighbour, electronic music pioneer Phil Thornton.

Largely recorded in Cairo, Egypt Unveiled is the latest in a collaborative series spanning 15 years. This predominantly instrumental album might well be the jewel in the crown. Underpinned by Ramzy’s exquisitely rhythmic and inventive playing on a variety of drums and Thornton’s keyboard and EBow guitar washes, the CD showcases the cream of traditional Egyptian wind instrument players on arghul (bamboo double clarinet), mizmar (double reed shawm) and flutes (kawala and nay), and a string section that includes qanun (zither), oud (lute), rebaba (spike fiddle) and violins. In less experienced and sensitive hands, the mixture of ancient and modern and Egyptian and pan-African elements could have been cacophonous. Instead, a delightful balance is struck between the sections.

On Pharaohniest, for example, qanun zither and flutes work in unison with violins. An emotive oud solo over ambient synth bed starts part one of the titular Egypt Unveiled, leading to a battery of percussion and the introduction of quartertone accordion. Several tracks later, in Khofus Return, the box makes an equally timely entrance. In Planet Egypt a variety of woodwind can be heard in perfect harmony. With Eternal Egypt, Immortal Egypt, Enchanted Egypt and now Egypt Unveiled, expat Ramzy has certainly repaid any debt he might owe his homeland.” – Tony Hillier, Rhythms Magazine

Khiyo are a London-based six-piece band playing radical, modern interpretations of Bengali heritage music.

The band was formed in 2007 as a collaboration between British-Bangladeshi vocalist Sohini Alam and composer/multi-instrumentalist Oliver Weeks to explore new ways of presenting traditional Bengali music whilst preserving its essence. The songs on this album represent an eclectic mix of Bengali classics from both Bangladesh and India, drawing on folk, film, protest songs and other traditional genres such as Rabindra Sangeet (the songs of Rabindranath Tagore) and Nazrul Sangeet (the songs of Bangladesh's national poet Kazi Nazrul Islam). Alam's powerful and expressive vocals are matched with dynamic and original arrangements that draw on South Asian and Western folk and classical traditions, rock and jazz.

The band is named after a letter of the Bengali alphabet, the 'Khiyo' ( ঝ ). It is a unique letter that, whilst being a combination of two letters, has an identity of its own. Similarly, though the band's members draw on many different musical backgrounds, the amalgamation of the whole has a singularly identifiable sound.

"Here is another excellent ARC CD of world music, with a selection of the best of Buena Vista by a few of the original BV musicians. They're led by a leading sonero, Luis Frank, and the great singer Pío Leyva. But just as important, the album features the accomplished musicians of Buena Vista: the Next Generation. The highlight is Compay Segundo's Chan Chan, the breakout hit from the original album, which is sung here by his nephews. This is amazing, vital, rhythmically complex and melodic music that will put a smile on your face, and get your body moving."

Clannad

CLANNAD - the Irish family group responsible for such timeless music as 'Theme From Harry's Game', 'In A Lifetime', 'I Will Find You' and the soundtrack to the 'Robin of Sherwood' TV series.

Over the decades, Clannad have made music that entwines the traditional and the modern, the past and the future, with stunningly beautiful results. With their haunting songs, mesmerizing vocals, and captivating sound the group has sold over fifteen million records worldwide.

The band first came to prominence in the UK in late 1982 when, after the hard hitting drama 'Harry's Game' was aired, their evocative theme song was propelled into the high reaches of the UK singles chart. This was no overnight success though; the band already had years of touring and six albums under their belt. Comprised of siblings Moya, Ciarán and Pól Brennan, along with their twin uncles Noel and Pádraig Duggan, the band began life performing in the family owned tavern in a remote part of North West Ireland. After winning an established folk competition of which the prize was a record deal with Phillips, they decided to go at it full time. Their self-titled debut album, 'Clannad', was released in 1973 which was celebrated at home and found an appreciative folk audience in Germany.

Their trademark sound began to develop over the course of these first six albums, taking near forgotten traditional Irish songs, often in their native Gaelic language, bringing new arrangements to them, and creating a unique vocal harmony sound. Throughout this period they toured extensively across Europe.

Towards the end of the seventies they recruited their younger sister on piano and harmony vocals. She worked on two albums and several tours with them before going on to establish her own highly successful solo career as Enya. The band had gradually been adding more original compositions to their records as well as introducing modern synthesized sounds into their traditional arrangements. Their distinctive blend of sounds led to them being commissioned to compose a theme for the ITV drama 'Harry's Game'. Public reaction to the song was instantaneous and the band were called back from their tour of Germany to appear on 'Top of the Pops'. This was a cause for national celebration at home and especially in their home county of Donegal. This was significantly, the first (and only) time, a Gaelic language song had been a hit in the UK charts. The song also earned them an Ivor Novello Award.

Following the success of this album they were approached to write a theme song for an upcoming TV series about one of England's most legendary characters, Robin Hood. As work on this progressed, it turned out to be much more than a song. Clannad ended up composing all of the music for the entire three series of 'Robin of Sherwood'. The show was a huge success at the time in the UK and is still on constant repeat in many countries across the world. The band became synonymous with the series and the mere mention of the show today will have most people humming the familiar refrain of the hit theme tune 'Robin (The Hooded Man)'. The band were also awarded with a BAFTA award for Best Original Television Music.

The band regrouped in Dublin to work on their next album 'Macalla'. During a break in recording one evening the band retired to the nearby pub for some refreshment. There they happened to bump into another regular, Bono. Having just released 'The Unforgettable Fire', U2 were, by this stage, well on their way to being the global phenomenon they are. Bono had been an enthusiastic supporter of the band since hearing 'Harry's Game' on the radio, describing it as 'the sound of angels'. U2 even adopted the track as the music they would walk onstage to in their live shows, a feature that was shown in their highly successful TV and DVD concert film 'Under A Blood Red Sky'.

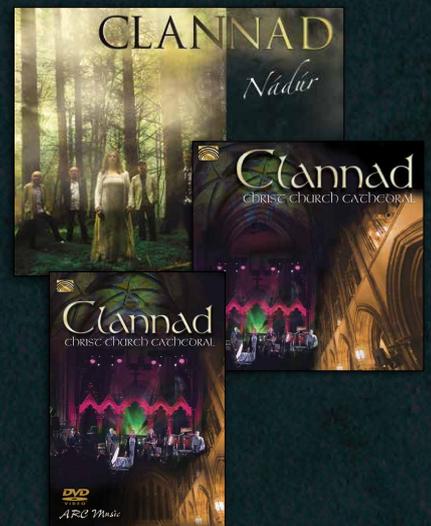

After a pint and a chat, Bono was keen to come back to the studio with them to listen to what they were working on. They had just begun a new song and were still working on ideas for the verses. Over the next few hours the idea began to emerge of Bono duetting on the song with Moya. The next evening they all met up again in the studio, with newly written lyrics, and recorded 'In a Lifetime'. The song had a rockier edge than a lot of their previous material but still featured the ethereal vocal style they had made their own. Bono performed, what many would argue, one of his greatest ever vocal recordings. The song went on to become a huge radio hit across the world and still sounds as fresh today as it did then.

By 1998 they had been working solidly as Clannad for over twenty-five years at this stage and were keen to take an extended break for some rest and relaxation and also to explore individual pursuits. In the best Irish tradition, one year led to another, and another. Being family they would still gather together on various occasions which would often end up in impromptu performances.

They came back together, professionally, in 2007 to be presented with a 'Lifetime Achievement Award' in Ireland's version of the BRIT awards. Over the next few years they undertook the odd concert or festival appearances.

In 2011 they were asked to perform a concert at Dublin's historic Christ Church Cathedral. Being in such an intimate setting they chose for the program to lean heavily on their early traditional material as the acoustic nature of these tracks would suit the surroundings well. With this in mind they invited Pól to join them for the shows which due to demand turned into three consecutive nights. The concerts were a huge success and this step of 'going back to go forward' brought renewed enthusiasm for all of them to do more together. They undertook more festivals and shows together across Europe and then in 2012 began writing together for the latest album - Nádúr.

For this close-knit group, their musical journey is both remarkable in its personal accomplishment and historic in its contributions to Irish culture. It is indeed fascinating to consider that what today is so widely regarded as Celtic music was first called "Clannad music." There is perhaps no greater testament to the impact of this groundbreaking group than that.

"Not since Seán Ó Riada gave birth to the nation has there been such a unique talent to remind us of who we are, who we were and who we can be, ancient and modern at the same time. Clannad, we owe you." - Bono Nádúr is Clannad's first album of new material since 1998's Grammy winning Landmarks, and it sees the full original line-up – siblings Moya, Ciarán and Pól Brennan and their twin uncles Noel and Pádraig Duggan – back together on record for the first time since the 1989 album Past Present. It is a fitting title for the coming together of this legendary Celtic family band; Nádúr is the Gaelic word for Nature.

Indeed, Nádúr is a very natural progression to the Clannad sound, which since the 70s has been to fuse the traditional with the modern, the past and the future, with stunningly beautiful results. Nádúr marks a forty year recording career which has seen such hits as 'Theme From Harry's Game', 'In A Lifetime', 'I Will Find You' and the soundtrack to the 'Robin of Sherwood' TV series.

Saor Patrol

Scotlands Leading Medieval Rock Band

From Central Scotland and Fife, the ancient Celtic Kingdom of Scotland, Saor Patrol and their unique sound of Scotland in the 21st century, brings together the sounds of the past into the present and launches the listener into an 'Exciting Clan and almost Tribal Experience'.

The sound that they started with was referred to as "Tribal Rock". When they added the electric guitar some said it was "Celtic Rock". When they shared a stage at a rock festival in England with Motörhead, their sound was referred to by Lemmy himself as "The Motörhead of Folk". However over the years their sound has evolved into what is now referred to as Scottish Medieval Rock. A sound you will not forget.

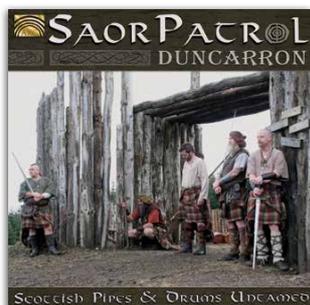

Some of the band members have appeared in many epic movie blockbusters like Gladiator, King Arthur, Robin Hood, The Eagle, Thor II and Macbeth to name but a few.

Saor Patrols other mission is to promote the Clan Clanranald Trust for Scotland and all its projects. Duncarron being among the flagships of educational experiences in Scotland.
